

When you reach the site, there is a lovely lady who pulls a bag of gold pieces out of a cauldron. Upon further inspection (you sniff it), it appears the gold pieces are chocolate! Even better than gold! (well, maybe . . .) You're starving so you begin to eat them and notice something strange about the chocolate . . .

Here's what they looked like (and the bag they came in is to the right):

